SPRING EXHIBITION: Harmony : Evolving

"Harmony" is a word with multiple meanings and interpretations. Peace, balance, and the combination of music notes in a chord are just a few. Artists in this community show are invited to interpret the theme as they see fit, using any medium they choose. Residents of York County that are of any age or level of experience can participate in this show for free.

Join us at the PCA&D York location (133 S. Duke Street, York, PA) on select dates and First Fridays to select a panel, work on your piece on-site with our supplies, or take your panel home to complete your creation and return before April 11, 2024.

"Harmony: Evolving" will begin with blank 10" x 10" wooden panels forming a grid on the main gallery wall at PCA&D York. Over time, the space will transform, beginning with a serene emptiness. As participants take panels to complete, they will reveal a portion of an image on the wall. The return of finished pieces will mix with designs and images until finally coming together to form an eclectic array of artworks showcasing the community's interpretation of "harmony." Closing Reception | April 26, 4:30 - 7:30 pm
