Work by Karim Gavins '20 in the Main Gallery

The Main Gallery at PCA&D is proud to welcome visitors to Finding Karim, the work of 2023-2024 Fine Artist in Residence Karim Gavins '20, Photography & Video, through Oct. 4. The show consists of mixed media installation, primarily fabric, archival digital prints, and drawing. A public reception will be held during Sept. 6 First Friday celebrations from 5-8 pm.

PCA&D offers an Alumni Artist in Residence program in which the participating artist then has an exhibition on the College campus; Gavins completed his residency in May. "The opportunity to present the work of Gavins is exciting," says Director of Exhibitions Alex Schaufele. "It connects our students more closely to a dynamic alumnus and him to the larger community. It also is a style of exhibition that we haven't done recently at PCA&D -- a full-scale immersive installation in multiple levels of the gallery."

Hayden Gallery hosts work by Rachel Yinger '14

Throughout the academic year, the Hayden Student Exhibition Space hosts exhibitions curated by alumni guest jurors. PCA&D is proud to present the work of Rachel Yinger '14, one of the 2023-2024 jurors, in her exhibition Re Union through Sept. 20.

A collection of Yinger's work from the past 10 years, Re Union also reflects Yinger's theme of "titling works with a compound word separated into two words, hence the separation of 'reunion.'"

A visual artist and curator, Yinger received her BFA in Fine Art from PCA&D in 2014, and an MFA in Socially Engaged Student Art from Moore College of Art & Design in 2018. She works in painting, drawing, printmaking, zine-making, and installation, and primarily creates large paintings and zines exploring themes of gender and sexuality. You can find her on campus as the Program Coordinator, Pre-College & Adult Enrichment in the Center for Creative Exploration and you can check out more of her work on Instagram (@rachel.yinger.art) or at rachelyinger.com.
