Campus safety: Signing up for RAVE Alerts

The College works with RAVE Mobile Safety as an emergency alert system. It uses your email and phone texts, and is one of the ways the College communicates in case of campus emergencies, if campus opening is delayed, or campus is closed for bad weather. Be on the lookout TODAY for an email from the College with instructions that will allow you to sign up for this critical service.

William Mammarella show opens at Bowling Green

The work of Assistant Professor William Mammarella (Chair, Foundation) is featured in a new exhibition, Landscapes, open through Oct. 10 at the Little Gallery on Bowling Green University's Fireland campus.

Mammarella has been part of PCA&D's faculty since 1997. The gallery states that Mammarella "views landscape not as scenery, but as the shape the land takes as a result of human activities and desires." You can view more of the Landscapes exhibition here, and visit Mammarella's website here.

Fig magazine features PCA&D prof, alumni

Don't miss the most recent issue of Fig Magazine, the Express Yourself issue, released last week. PCA&D features prominently, with Assistant Professor Aaron Thompson (Fine Art) interviewed about what drew him to the arts, how PCA&D fosters learning, and what excites him about the Lancaster art scene. Fig also highlights the work of three PCA&D Fine Art alumni as "rising talent": Sherrie Snyder (@itssherries.art) and Kelby Weaver (@iamkelbo), both members of the Class of 2024, and Aubrey Maurer '22 (@aubrey_m_). Comments Thompson about PCA&D, "We really cultivate an environment where the student's voice and the work they are making is empowered. Because of that, you will see a lot of diversity of work because everyone's voice is very different. At our annual exhibition, you will see the full gamut, and that is something we really care about here." You can see the full digital issue of Fig here.

Work by Karim Gavins '20 in the Main Gallery

The Main Gallery at PCA&D is proud to welcome visitors to Finding Karim, the work of 2023-2024 Fine Artist in Residence Karim Gavins '20, Photography & Video, through Oct. 4. The show consists of mixed media installation, primarily fabric, archival digital prints, and drawing. A public reception will be held during Sept. 6 First Friday celebrations from 5-8 pm.

PCA&D offers an Alumni Artist in Residence program in which the participating artist then has an exhibition on the College campus; Gavins completed his residency in May. "The opportunity to present the work of Gavins is exciting," says Director of Exhibitions Alex Schaufele. "It connects our students more closely to a dynamic alumnus and him to the larger community. It also is a style of exhibition that we haven't done recently at PCA&D -- a full-scale immersive installation in multiple levels of the gallery."

Hayden Gallery hosts work by Rachel Yinger '14

Throughout the academic year, the Hayden Student Exhibition Space next to the Atrium hosts exhibitions curated by alumni guest jurors. PCA&D is proud to present the work of Rachel Yinger '14, one of the 2023-2024 jurors, in her exhibition Re Union, through Sept. 20.

A collection of Yinger's work from the past 10 years, Re Union also reflects Yinger's theme of "titling works with a compound word separated into two words, hence the separation of 'reunion.'"

A visual artist and curator, Yinger received her BFA in Fine Art from PCA&D in 2014, and an MFA in Socially Engaged Student Art from Moore College of Art & Design in 2018. She works in painting, drawing, printmaking, zine-making, and installation, and primarily creates large paintings and zines exploring themes of gender and sexuality. You can find her on campus as the Program Coordinator for Pre-College & Adult Enrichment in the Center for Creative Exploration and you can check out more of her work on Instagram (@rachel.yinger.art) or at rachelyinger.com.
